

CRYSTAL BREEZE CLEANING

Estate Cleanout

What to Know Before You Start

Protect what matters. Get clear on the next step.

☐

Protect what cannot be replaced

Before removal begins, set aside family photos, jewelry, keys, and important documents. Check drawers and pockets before clearing furniture or clothing.

☐

Let us know what stays and what goes

Point out what you want to keep, what can be removed, and anything you are unsure about. No labeling or sorting is needed before contacting us.

☐

Remember the spaces that are easy to miss

Include closets, attic, basement, garage, and outdoor storage in the scope. A room-by-room list helps make the quote reflect the work you need.

☐

Know what can affect your quote

The amount and type of contents, bulky items, stairs, elevator access, and parking can affect the work. Mention these when discussing your property.

☐

Be clear about what "finished" means

Contents removed, broom-swept, or detailed cleaning? Confirm what is included, any disposal fees, and approval for extra work before it begins.

Choose your deadline and decision-maker

Share any closing, lease-end, or handover date. Identify the person who can approve the work and decisions about belongings.

Not sure what to write in the quote form?

Start with the rooms or items, your town, and your preferred timeframe.

Example: "A house and garage in Queens, ideally cleared next month."
